The growth of the automobile business is one of the new avenues in which the commercial business of the city is constantly expanding.

More than 35 new machines have been sold here this season, nearly all of them by local agencies. One house alone, the Ideal Motor Co., has sold 27 cars, seventeen in this county and ten in adjoining counties.

Farmers are buying many of the new machines, the following being some of the recent purchases:

J. T. Garnett, of Casky, has replaced his 38 overland with an E. M. F. 30 touring car.

Frank C. Kelly, of Pembroke, has bought one of the same size and make, a five-passenger touring car.

Early in the season John W. Keeling, the "Strawberry King" of Fairview, bought an E. M. F. 30 and delivered berries in it this season.

G. H. Stowe, of Julien, has just bought a handsome Overland 51, four-door five-passenger touring car, now ready for delivery by the Ideal Motor Co.

T. P. Johnson, Oak Grove, has an Overland 42, five-passenger touring car, bought here.

Joe Lanier, Crofton, has an Overland 41, touring car.

L. M. Cayce has one of the same kind that he recently drew in a "raffle" while out on the road, with the good luck for which he is noted.

Mrs. M. H. Wood has just received an Overland 52, four door touring car.

H. A. Keach last week bought an E. M. F. 30 touring car.

Jailer A. E. Mullens has bought a Flanders 20, five passenger touring car.

Dr. J. H. Rice has purchased of the Forbes Manufacturing Co., a Maxwell runabout.

Dr. T. W. Perkins has just received a yellow "Schatt" runabout.

Dr. Austin Bell will soon be out in a new Hopp Mobile runabout.

Elbridge Bradshaw, rural route carrier on route No. 1, has a "Metz" in which he delivers mail on his route.

C. J. Gee, the liveryman, has a Patterson, one of the few machines bought out of town.

Mr. I. N. Rush, the insurance man, also has a "White Steamer," which he uses for his business.

Roy Kenner, the groceryman, has purchased an Overland 38 and E. S. Melton the sewing machine man, has one of the same kind.

Some of the Ideal's best sales have been in other counties. Clyde Ruby, W. J. Ruby, H. H. Holeman and J. D. Sharp, of Hopkins, and Frank Snaden, of Todd, have all bought E. M. F. 30 cars; L. E. Littlepage, Hopkins, a four passenger Model Overland 31, Dr. A. W. Davis, Hopkins, a Chandler's Roadster, a $1,600 machine.

Mr. Goldthwaite, a special agent of the Overland, has been here some time with the Ideal Motor Co., which is rapidly making itself a distributing concern for several Western Kentucky counties in handling automobiles.

ALLEGES CONSPIRACY.

H. C. Thompson of Hopkinsville Sues Witteville Coal Mining Co.

Poteau, Okla., June 23—Alleging conspiracy, H. C. Thompson of Hopkinsville, Ky., filed suit against the stockholders of the Witteville Coal Mining Company, located near here, asking an injunction restraining the defendants from selling the company to a party of Pennsylvania capitalists who have made an offer for the property. By misrepresentation, Thompson alleges, the stockholders induced him to sign his stock, valued at $2,900, over to the stockholders.
After receiving a check for this amount, he says the company refused to pay the money to him.

Masquerade As Woman.

Boston, June 26—An autopsy performed on the charred remains of Harriet Kelly, stewardess, who was one of the two women burned to death in the fire that destroyed the excursion steamer Governor Andrew last Sunday morning disclosed the fact that Harriet was a man. This fact became public today for the first time.

For thirty years Harriet has lived as a woman and was known on the Governor Andrew as a widow. No reason for his masquerade is known.
For several years he was employed as a domestic in aristocratic backbay families, and always gave satisfaction.

Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 149 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chances of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not if Electric Bitters be used,
as Robert Madison, of West Burlington, Ia., proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months of suffering from virulent liver trouble and yellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters.

DAMAGE SUITS HELP & HURT

Mostly the Latter, Regarding
All Concerned Says
Texas Paper.

TOO MUCH OF THIS CHARACTER

Of Litigation, Which Has Become Almost An Organized Raid.

The following clippings from the Corpus Christi (Texas) Caller, regarding damage suits against railroads and corporations in general, is not only true of Texas, but is true of Kentucky. If there isn't a halt called along these lines, it will be the ruin of the railroads and put them out of business. There is little gained in the long run to the people.
The Caller says:

"That damage suit raids are an increasing evil as an easy method of shaking down the corporations," is shown by the last annual report of the State Railway Commission just issued.

"While no fair-minded person can question the wisdom or justice of making the carriers responsible for the losses of property or life and limb they occasion through no fault of the victims, this character of litigation, so profitable to attorneys, has in some communities deteriorated into an organized raid. Machines for the purpose are built up in some instances, consisting of leggers or 'ambulance chasers,' detectives to ferret or invent evidence, and jury spotters or fixers. Back of it all are shrewd, keen legal sharks in their dens, pulling all the strings and financing the raid, for the lion's share of the pelf. The hopeless victim, or heirs of the same, for whom the law was made, gets but a small part of the booty.

"The Caller would not cast aspersions upon its reputable lawyer friends; nor upon those who engage in legitimate damage suits. It knows many of them to be clean and honorable men. However, there are enough others engaged in reprehensible practices to disgrace their profession. So vast are their operations that the results are proving a serious economic factor in the railroad situation in this State

"During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, payments for personal injuries by Texas roads aggregated $2,360,298.29, being an increase of $150,105.14, over personal injury payments for the previous year, when a total of $2,190,186.75 was paid out by the roads of this State on this score.

"For the year ending June 30, 1909
personal injury payments aggregated 2.42 per cent. of the gross receipts of Texas roads. For the year ending June 30, 1910, personal injury payments aggregated 2.49 per cent. of gross receipts.

"Further analyzed it is found there was a decrease of 7.69 per cent. in amounts paid out in settlement for injuries and deaths for the year 1910 as compared with 1909.

"The Caller holds no brief to defend the railroads. It views with satisfaction the wise legislation of the State and Federal Governments to regulate them and prevent corporate injustice to the people. Texas not only limits stocks and bond issues, but fixes freight and passenger rates and conditions of service.

"Despite this fact it is still the practice of a cheap John class of demagogues to berate the railroads and all other capitalized industries.
"Prejudice is thus fomented
among the less informed classes.
This prejudice not only serves a political purpose in some instances, but does double duty in the jury
box. From it springs the morally lax and unfair disposition of juries to 'stick the railroad' regardless of the merits of a case.

"Such jurors not only permit themselves to be influenced by a dishonest motive, but are mistaken as to the financial benefit to result from this legalized, but immoral robbery.

"They are in fact voting money out of their own pockets instead

Not an Experiment.

Paint Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place, says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly trouble!
I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't possibly praise it too highly."
You need not be afraid to take Car-dual. It is no new experiment. For fifty years, it has been found to relieve headache, backache, and similar womanly troubles. Composed of gentle-acting, herb ingredients, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles, today.

in a higher freight rate. The damage suit judgments are an expense item taken cognizance of by the commission in fixing compensatory rates above all expenses.

"In Texas just now, especially in our part of Texas, the great need of the hour is more railroads and lower freight rates. Every time a petit jury awards a small fortune to a legal shark on a trumped up damage suit, the same jurors and their neighbors, in an indirect manner, have to pay the judgement out of their own toll and industry "

Bob Whites in the Land.

If the signs are to be believed,
there will be more quail or partridge whichever one chooses to call them, afraid next season than ever before in the state. One cannot go to the country these days without hearing the birds. All around Nashville they seem to be plentiful. Sportsmen say the long-dry weather has helped the birds very greatly, and they anticipate good bags next winter.
Squirrels are reported to be scarce.
The timbered country where they formerly were plentiful has been denuded of its hickory, and as a result squirrels are few and far between.
But the bird prospect is very bright.

HOW PARIS REPORTERS WRITE

Specimens of What the English Call Journalists Cullied From the French Newspapers.

"Literature" is the agreeable name coined by M. Adrien Valvy, humorist-in-ordinary to the Gaulois, for what in English is called "journalism," and he quotes a few good specimens of "literature." "This man, wrapped in the dread but necessary mantle of social justice, seemed at the moment truly a pillar of society, as in the picture graven by the philosopher's burning pen," wrote a picturesque reporter. He was describing an execution, and the pillar of society was the executioner. Another, or perhaps the same, reporter went to Antwerp on a cold day.

"Ah! the cold that morning in the streets of Antwerp! Along the pavement the water lay, still numbed with the cold. At street corner, where the wind whistled more bitterly, were spread large splashes of ice. By the Seine it was terrible. With a steamer of smoke like the white feather of Henri IV.'s helm rising from its roof, the Felicite crossed the river. The Felicite! Ah, what a warm and comfortable name was the ferry boat!"

Here is the graceful picture: "It was after lunch! The hour of toasts was long since past. Mme. G. rose. She laughed. 'Ladies and gentlemen, I have an idea,' she said, and laughed again. She bent her forehead, upon which blond curls played, and lifted it, laughing again. It amused her to be making a speech."

M. Vely warrants that all these specimens are authentic.—Paris Correspondent London Telegraph.

THOSE FAMILIAR PHRASES

Expressions That Are Nearly Always to Be Found in Novels Written by Women.

Faces are "proud;" and ladies with an imperfect nose have "a pure, proud, lovely woman's face, with glorious soul-lit eyes." Heroines are "slight." Chairs, on the other hand, are "deep;" and after the accident of a sprained ankle you "almost carry Elsie's slight figure to a deep chair."

In the important matter of costume, emotional dresses are worn, and virginal thoughts go with white frocks. "Clinging white draperies" are essential to the heroine and "colors" are not worn. Eyes are extremely significant. The heroines have "glorious dark-blue soul-lit womanly eyes." Ladies of a villainous type, on the other hand, are recognizable by their "green eyes." On encountering at a country house eyes "scintillating like emeralds," a bachelor should dispatch a telegram summoning himself to the deathbed of "his grand-aunt, Barbara Batley." In Chapter 34 Green Eyes are "unmasked." Heroines with "pansy eyes," ladies with orbs "misty with unshed tears," are delicate and unlike anything on earth. Though they have shortened their hair and lengthened their skirts, "as yet no thought of love has entered their bright young lives," and "all that seemed too far away from their young glorious thoughts."

Gentlemen with "the most expressive dark eyes," lead a harassed life.

Last Veteran of 1812.

The Buffalo Express, commenting on the assembly's action in killing a bill granting the use of armories to the Society of the War of 1812, asks if it can be possible that there are any survivors of that war who are able to go through the manual of arms. According to the records of New York's board of aldermen the metropolis hurled at public expense with much pomp and ceremony the very last 1812 veteran about five years ago. He was Hiram Cronk of Oneida county, and his obsequies here cost $3,000 and the time of a regiment of National Guardsmen and half a thousand policemen. The odd part of the whole affair was that the appropriation was made and all arrangements were perfected some months before poor old Private Cronk—he was several years beyond the century mark—answered the last call.

The Servian Drum.

The men who play the big drums in the Servian army must have an easier lot than the drummers of other lands; for they do not have to carry their own drums.

In nearly all cases, instead of being slung in front of the man who plays it, the instrument is put on a small two-wheeled cart drawn by a large dog. Of course the drummer must play as he marches; but the dog is so well trained that there is no difficulty in doing this.

The animal keeps its place even through the longest marches, and the drummer walks behind the cart, performing on the instrument as he goes along. Each regiment is provided with two or three big drums; but few regiments have hands.—The Sunday Magazine.

A Narrow Escape.

"I was once urging a bachelor," says George Ade, "to remain at the club for a game of cards; but he insisted that he must call upon a lady friend. I finally said:

"Don't you know it is dangerous for a man to call upon a lady after he has been drinking?"

"That's so," said my bachelor friend as he took off his hat and tapcoat. "Many a man has become engaged to be married in such circumstances."—The Sunday Magazine.

LADY IS HEAVY CONSUMER

She is Supported by the Toil of Others, Who Acquire Cheerfully to the Condition.

Economically the lady is supported by the toil of others, but while this is equally true of other classes of society, the oddity of her case consists of the acquiescence of those most concerned. The lady herself feels no uneasiness in her equivocal situation, and the toilers who support her do so with enthusiasm. She is not a producer; in most communities productive labor is by consent unadmitted. On the other hand, she is the heaviest of consumers.

The women of the working classes have been saved by their work itself. In the shop and the factory they have learned what the nursery can teach. But the lady has had no social training whatever; the noticeable weakness of her play at bridge is a tendency to work for her own hand. As the gentleman decays, the lady survives as the strongest evidence of his former predominance. Where he set her, there she stays. One after another the fabrics that supported her have tottered, but she remains, adapting herself to each new set of circumstances as it arises. It is possible that an advancing social sentiment will extinguish her altogether, but she can never be forgotten.

AT 60 DEGREES BELOW ZERO

How the Intense Cold of Winter in the Far Northwest Affects Man and Animals.

"I asked an Alaskan pioneer who was crossing to his old home in Sweden what happened when the thermometer goes down to 60 and 80 degrees below zero," said Marshall J. Taylor of Seattle, Wash. "At 60 degrees below," he said, "the exposed ears, hands or nose will freeze in going a quarter of a mile under ordinary circumstances; but the children go and come from school as usual without suffering from the cold provided their faces and hands are protected."

"They soon get used to it. But caution must be used to avoid drawing the cold air into the lungs, and it is dangerous to breathe through the mouth. More die from pneumonia brought on by freezing the lungs in that way than from any other form of exposure. Horses are protected by breathing bags, which extend down from the nose of the animal about eighteen inches and are open at the bottom. The breath which is exhaled warms the air in the bag before it is inhaled and drawn into the lungs. And men wear a 'parky' or headdress which extends over the face and affords similar protection."

"In the Canadian districts the Northwest Mounted police regulate the treatment of horses on the freight wagons and stage lines in a most humane manner, so as to prevent them from suffering in this way."—Washington Herald.

Roman Bricks.

When the preparations for rebuilding the Campanile in Venice were undertaken the archaeologists were afforded an opportunity to make some interesting studies of the bricks.

It was found that they had been used in arches, fortifications, the tops of walls and in other ways before they were built into the Campanile, and that they were not Venetian but Roman bricks.

These ancient bricks were made in sifces, for in many the layers could be seen undisturbed. It is said that bricks made this way can bear a greater weight than modern bricks.

The bricks examined were of the first century. One of them bore the imprint of a horseshoe, which may prove that Romans used a horseshoe like ours although it is generally believed that their horseshoes were strapped on, not nailed.—Harper's Weekly.

Had Lost His Chance.

Years ago when the "Panhandle" railroad was in course of construction its progress was a matter of great interest to the people of the region, says the Youth's Companion. A farmer who sold provisions to the contractors often reached the place where the men were at work at meal time. He was greatly impressed at their voracity. The work was hard and when the dinner bell rang every man made a dash for the table and before one could believe it possible the food had disappeared. One day a workman on his way to the table tripped on the root of a tree and fell. He lay quite still, making no attempt to rise. The farmer rushed to him in great concern. "Are you badly hurt?" he asked. "No," answered the man. "Well, why don't you get up and go to dinner?" "No use," returned the other, sadly. "It's too late now."

Mainz Cathedral in Danger.

The famous Mainz cathedral, one of the oldest and most interesting in Europe, is stated to be in serious danger, owing to the action of underground water. Special drainage operations have before been carried out with a view to removing the danger, but apparently the results have not been lasting, water having again collected, and it is feared that the effects on the foundations of the cathedral will be disastrous. It is now proposed to proceed without delay with the work of strengthening the foundations, not only of the cathedral, but also of several other old buildings, including the ducal castle.

LAY JUDGE QUITE USELESS

One of Them, Arguing for Abolishment of Office, Tells of His Only Concurrent Opinion.

In many of the interior counties of Pennsylvania there are lay judges who assist the law judges in disposing of miscellaneous cases. Several years ago there was introduced into the legislature a bill to abolish the office of lay judge. Judge ———, himself a lay judge, appeared before the senate judiciary committee at Harrisburg, which was considering the matter.

His argument was this: "There is before your august body a bill to abolish the office of lay judge. I am in favor of its passage. For ten years I have been a lay judge myself, sitting day by day with a judge learned in the law. But he does all the work and I have no show. In all these years I have only once been asked for a concurrent opinion and that was last week, when, after listening to two lawyers argue an equity case for three days, my colleague turned to me and said, 'Judge, don't these god-durned long-winded lawyers give you a pain?'—Metropolitan.

First Actor—Yes, we had a rough time in the Gulch.

Second Actor—Really? Did the audience "hand you a lemon?"

First Actor—No, they handed us an egg.

Second Actor—What did that mean?

WOMAN'S PECULIAR CHARM.

Mr. Richards says of his daughter, Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbes), that "one of her chief characteristics was the immediate and striking effect she had upon strangers. Few people who had met her even once ever forgot her and she had a marvelous power of attracting confidences; men who had only known her some hours would confide in her, not only their love affairs, but their religious difficulties, the whole history of their lives, with a touching assurance of her ready sympathy. It was, I suppose, to this fact that she owed her extraordinary knowledge of human nature. Men told her the truth about themselves, a confidence rarely bestowed upon any woman."

SPRINGBOARD NOSE.

There is a peculiar insect found in the Malay peninsula and called the "lantern-fly," which is remarkable for its sudden leaps, made without the aid of its wings. It was only after several specimens had been captured by European naturalists and brought west for careful examination that it was discovered that a curious projection on the front of the insect's head, a kind of nose with a crense in it, was the leaping organ. When bent back under the abdomen and suddenly released it sends the little creature flying.—Harper's Weekly.

SLOWER THAN THE DEAD.

"Frank Work," said a New York broker, "dearly loved a fast trotter. By the same token he hated to drive at a slow pace."

"A friend took him out one day behind a pair of bays. Either the bays were slow or the driver believed in sparing his horse flesh; at any rate, Mr. Work returned home in a rather glum humor."

"Did you have a nice drive, father?" one of his daughters asked. "Nice!" snorted Mr. Work. "Why, the very horses passed us, cheering as they went!"

ONE METHOD.

CURRENT COMMENT

CREAM OF NEWS COMPILED AND COLLECTED FROM ALL SOURCES

Senator Lea is so weak from the recent loss of blood that he has been ordered back to bed to regain his strength.

The Magazine Trust is the next to be attacked. It is reported that the Department of Justice will prosecute the Periodical Publishers' Association.

The Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill, which would have nullified the free print paper clause of the bill, was overwhelmingly defeated in the Senate Monday after a seven-hours debate.

Former Senator J. S. C. Blackburn in a speech at Owenton Monday declared that he believed it is to the best interest of the Democratic party in Kentucky to nominate William Addams, of Cynthiana, for Governor.

Representative Fowler, a new Democratic member from Illinois, is getting laughed at on a charge of inserting the word "applause" at frequent intervals, in the copy of a speech furnished to the public printer, in one place following a quotation from the Bible.

Whatever you do in other races, vote for Hanlett for Superintendent of Public Instruction. He is the best man in the race, is our home man and deserves the support of every Christian county Democrat. His name comes first in his column and he will be first when the votes are counted. Help to make this assured.

But for the fact that Mr McCreary is regarded as the candidate of the same people who led the party to defeat in 1907, some of whom are again running, he would get practically all of the votes hereabouts. As it is, Addams will have a considerable following in Christian county. Those however, who know Mr. McCreary best, do not believe he will allow the machine element to control him.

Indiana Wheat Story.

Evansville, Ind., June 28.—In order to save the grain many farmers in Southern Indiana and Western Kentucky worked in the harvest fields Sunday. Lloyd Botramel, while driving through the country in his automobile, came upon a farmer whose horses were so exhausted in the wheat field from the heat that they could go no further. Botramel hitched his auto to the binder and pulled it, cutting the remainder of the field for the farmer.

Run Over By Horse.

While standing at the corner of Church street and Fourth avenue about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, preparatory to taking a street car, Miss Will Allen Dromgoole, the well-known authoress, was struck by a runaway horse drawing a buggy, and fell to the street, the buggy also passing over her body. A jaw was broken and a number of teeth knocked out, Miss Dromgoole also sustaining painful bruises.—The Tennessean.

Kentucky Teachers.

Owensboro, Ky., June 28.—That Kentucky is behind the times in education and that it is determined to get abreast of the most progressive states in the union, will be statements of leading educators in the convention of the Kentucky Educational association which started yesterday and will last three days. Eight hundred delegates are expected.

Henry S. Barker, president of the Kentucky State University will speak today.

HON. ROBERT L. GREEN

Who Seeks Democratic Nomination for Clerk of Court of Appeals.

Here is a likeness of Mr. R. L. Green, of Frankfort, who is popularly known as "Bob" Green through out the State. Mr. Green aspires to receive the Democratic nomination for the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals, an office he is better equipped for than any man in Kentucky. For nineteen years he was assistant clerk in this office, and when he left the department he was a veritable walking encyclopedia of its archives. No man ever served the State more faithfully than he and no one ever made more friends while in that office than he. He was endorsed by every member of the Court of Appeals, not altogether for his ability to serve that body but by reason of his worth. He is a noble Christian gentleman and that party that honors him is but honoring itself. It goes without saying that he will get a large vote in Boyle and adjoining counties.—Danville Advocate.

Mention was made in the last issue of an abnormal egg from the yards of Dr. N. S. West. The egg left at the Kentuckian office weighed five ounces, having the general appearance of a small goose egg.

When opened, was found to be two eggs in one, the inner one a complete and perfect egg, shell and all, slightly under the usual size. The freak was one entirely out of the ordinary.

MANY VARIETIES OF PALMS

Some Interesting Facts About the Widely Differing Members of This Tree Family.

In general palms are erect, unbranched trees with buttressed bases. Many attain heights of 100 feet and at their summits they bear a rosette of large leaves, each resembling a large fan in some kinds and a feather in others. In some species the fan-like leaves exceed 40 feet in length and six feet in breadth; the leaves resembling feathers are twenty feet by four or more, without division. Some species are low growing, even creeping; others are slender stemmed plants which climb by means of hooked spines; some have flexible stems which extend from tree to tree in festoons and attain several hundred feet, 500 being common, and some writers place the length at 1,500 and even more. In the ordinary species the flowers are borne in huge clusters. The fruits are mostly berries and drupes. They are enclosed in a fibrous husk and frequently contain a hard nut. The flowers, which are generally small, bear no relation in size to the fruit, which may be as small as a pea or, as in the double coconut, larger than a man's head.

THE BOY ON THE FARM.

There is the making of a good man in the boy on the farm, but he can be irretrievably spoiled in the making, if too much is put upon him; if his shoulders are loaded with blame for everything that goes wrong indoors and out; if everybody feels privileged to give him orders, and if he is regarded as a mere machine without muscles to tire, sensibilities to wound, intellect to stimulate, or a soul to inspire with longings for better things. Those into whose hands are committed these youths ordained to eat their bread in the sweat of their face, have a responsibility above that of merely providing food, shelter and clothing. An employer may be harboring an angel unawares, and whether this be true or not, there is laid upon him the duty of dealing justly and conscientiously with the lad.—Shoals News.

HOSTILE CAN OPENER.

Next to the collar button the can opener has been of all mankind's inanimate enemies the most unrelenting. The can opener has not the elusive tendencies of the collar button, but it has an even greater reluctance to perform the duties proper to it. But a can opener can do more things than not open cans. In a recent investigation in Philadelphia of dishonest weights and measures in groceries and markets can openers were discovered fastened to the fork or on the customer's end of the hanger. It is gratifying at least to learn that a use has been found for the can opener to which it is better adapted than the opening of cans.—The National Post.

UNCLE HIRAM TO HIS NEPHEW

He Gives the Youngster a Little Advice as to When to Make Decisions.

"Don't," said Uncle Hiram to his hopeful young nephew, "make any momentous decision when you're tired. When we're tired we want to get the question settled and we're ready to make concessions, to give way, and the other man is sure to get the better of us."

"We often hear it said that it's a good thing when in doubt about anything to sleep on it, and this is sound advice. The general theory of the benefits to be derived from sleeping on a question is that sleep clarifies the mind, but in coming to a settlement about a thing the most important advantage that we find in sleeping on it lies in the renewed strength that sleep gives us. It renews our courage, makes us ready not to give way but to stand up and fight and fit and able to fight."

"Don't be in a terrible hurry to settle things, Stevey, anyway. There are times when you must settle when the iron is hot, but as a general proposition don't be impatient to get things settled; it's the man able to keep cool and wait and let the other fellow do the worrying, that generally gets the biggest piece of the cake."

"We may meet occasionally a man of high and unbroken continuous courage, but not often; the biggest of men have heart sag at times, though they may not show it; we are all human and much alike under the skin if that's any comfort to you; we all have our moods; times when we are buoyant and happy and times when we are low in spirits and depressed."

"Don't, Stevey, settle things when you are feeling low and dispirited. You'll take a different view when you come back, as you inevitably will, to the summit."

"Let your decisions be made, Stevey, not when you are tired or depressed but when you are fit and strong, and pride and habit will make you live up to them."

REVENGE ON WEATHER MAN

People Anxiously Looking for Right Conditions Chuckle When He Catches a Bad Cold.

A grin transfigured the face of the shipping clerk who had telephoned to the weather bureau for particulars on the day's atmospheric outlook. The grin conveyed a pleasing message to the manager.

"No storm in sight, eh?" he said.

"No," said the clerk; "but that wasn't what I was laughing at. That fellow down there has got a cold. He's so hoarse he can scarcely speak."

"A cold, has he?" said the manager, and then he also smiled.

In the course of the day hundreds of people about town chuckled gleefully because the weather clerk had lost his voice. The clerk was aware of the hilarity his affliction caused.

"For the first time since I have been connected with the bureau," he said, "I have been able to make the people happy. As soon as an inquirer perceived that my head was all stopped up he began to feel better if I had predicted a tornado within six hours he would have laughed. Nothing that I can think of makes such a strong appeal to the new general public's sense of humor as a case of influenza in the weather office. The chief and three of his clerks had colds not long ago, and everybody who heard about it thought it the best joke of the season. Apparently they consider us responsible for their own sniffing, and they rejoice in a belated revenge."

Getting Out the Strength.

Among the applications for the cookship in a Richmond household was a rather dashing yellow girl. The lady of the house was rather doubtful as to the ability of the mulatto, and therefore propounded more than the usual number of questions to her. Some were fairly satisfactory; but when the interrogatories touched the question of making tea, the negotiations were declared off.

"How long do you boil tea?"

"Well, ma'am," said the girl, "dat's matter of taste, ain't it? Some folks biles it longer, an' some shorter."

"But you do boil it?"

"Cert'n'y, ma'am, I biles it. Pus-sunly, I always thought dat two hours was long 'nough to bile any tea. Yo' kin git de stren'th outter any kind of tea in dat time."—Lippincott's.

Blind Charity.

"While I think I am rather inclined to give, yet I try to be discriminating, not to give to every beggar with an idle and obviously untrue tale, but," said the nearsighted man to a New York Sun reporter, "I recently fell impulsively for a story new to me."

"Boss," said this man as he looked at me, "I've lost my spectacles and I'm trying to get together money enough to buy another pair."

"You know, if I should lose my spectacles I should be lost myself, and on that story I gave up without another thought."

CHIEF DUTY OF SHEPHERD

It is to Shear the Sheep, According to Children of Whom Dr. Jowett Tells.

Rev. Dr. Jowett, at a dinner in New York, said, apropos of his salary:

"The cost of living is so high over here that I have decided, after all, to accept the generous salary that I first declined. I hope that this acceptance won't call to my congregation's minds, however, the story of the sheep."

"A minister, you know, was once addressing a Sunday school. It was a Sunday school of little children, and the minister in his address desired to compare himself to a shepherd, and his congregation to the shepherd's flock."

"What are these beautiful animals?" he said, pointing to a drawing on the blackboard.

"Sheep! Sheep!" chorused the children.

"And the cloaked figure in the foreground—what is he?"

"A shepherd!" the children cried.

"Exactly," agreed the minister, beaming with satisfaction. "And now, dear children, can you tell me what it is that the shepherd does for the sheep?"

"A score of little mouths opened wide, and a score of treble voices cried shrilly:

"He shears 'em!"

SURE SIGN OF CONVERSION

If the Seeker for Salvation Tries to Remove His Tattoo Marks, He Will Stick.

After a month of doubt as to the new convert's sincerity the missionary made up his mind that he was going to stick.

"He is trying to find some way to remove tattoo marks," said the missionary. "That is a sure sign that he means business. Tattooing is not necessarily incompatible with religion, but a lot of converts seem to think it is and are anxious to shed those marks along with their bad habits. Pagan designs that they picked up in tropical countries strike them as especially irreverent."

"The average convert can worry along pretty comfortably with mermaids, anchors, and other emblems of the sea printed on his arms, but heathen gods and goddesses afflict his conscience sorely. In some cases of tattooing there is a repeated application of tannin that will remove the marks, but that is not always effective, and many a sincere Christian has to go through life with the picture of a heathen idol on his forearm."

Early School Books.

The horn book invented in 1450 and used considerably up to the close of the eighteenth century was the usual textbook of the elementary school. A thin slab of hard wood was covered with parchment, on which was printed the capital and small letters, numerals and some elementary syllables and words.

Over this a thin sheet of transparent cow's horn was placed and firmly bound so that no moisture could penetrate. To this the Bible and the sampler on which little girls painfully attached the letters of the alphabet, some "Golly saying" and a border of herring stitch, or some conventional pattern of impossible flowers and foliage and the legend "Mary Smith, her sampler," or the like, were about all that the children used up to the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Window Glass.

Utility is the mother of nearly all decorative features. Windows were first designed to give light. The history of glass shows that the useful has taken decorative prominence. In old colonial houses glass in small panes was used probably because it was cheap. The sash was divided by small pieces of wood called mullions. After many years glass came to be used in large sizes, and of recent years it has been the practice to have but a single sheet, often in a very large size of plate glass. There are permissible only where the view warrants their use. The average house or cottage is better without them, as they suggest the show window of a shop rather than a dwelling.

Halcyon Days.

Alcyon, or Halcyon, the daughter of Aeolus, married Ceyx. Ceyx was drowned and Alcyon, on learning his fate, threw herself into the sea. The gods were moved by the tragedy of the young lovers; they brought them back to life in the form of halcyons, or kingfishers, and they decreed that for the seven days from December 22 to December 29 the sea should remain calm while the seabirds built their nests upon it. Those seven days, the last of the year, are therefore called the halcyon days, days of tranquillity.—London Globe.

Styles in Cigarette Cases.

The newest cigarette case is a combination of gold and platinum, very thin and perfectly flat, carrying only a single row of cigarettes. The curving styles are no longer considered the mode, the new cases being so flat that they are easily carried in the vest pocket. These are in gold with stripes of platinum, the stripe being sometimes one-sixteenth of an inch wide, or again five or six hair-lines of platinum unite to form a stripe on the gold surface.

Farewell, Messrs. Chicken Lice, Mites and All Your Kinsfolk!

WE HAVE ORDERS FOR YOU TO MOVE!

BOURBON INSECTICIDE WILL HOLD THE FORT.

This article will be found an ideal preparation to keep fowls free from lice and mites. It is a highly medicated powder which not only kills lice, mites and all kinds of vermin and insects on fowls and animals, but also destroys germs and prevents the spread of infectious diseases. Setting hens and nests should be thoroughly dusted with this powder and it should be sprinkled around poultry houses, coops, pens and other places where fowls are kept, to destroy poisonous odors and disease-breeding germs.

Price—1 Lb. Box 25 Cents.

Bourbon Poultry Cure

is a liquid tonic and conditioner which acts directly on the blood and is immediately taken up and carried to every part of the fowl's body, completely destroying all germs and poisons and supplying nourishing and health-producing elements which give energy and strength to the system and cures every sick fowl that can possibly be saved. When given as a tonic it makes fowls strong, vigorous and thrifty, causes them to grow and fatten rapidly, and puts them in fine condition for egg laying.

It is Simple and Easy to Use.

Place a few drops in the drinking water or feed and the fowls take their own medicine, curing themselves without trouble to you. It works alike on chickens, ducks, geese, pigeons, birds and all the fowl family. For the treatment of Blackhead and other diseases in turkeys this remedy is without an equal.

Costs But a Trifle.

A 50c bottle makes 12 gallons of medicine, and one quart makes 30 gallons, when diluted—enough to keep a large flock healthy for several months.

To make fowls pay profits in either eggs or growth you must keep them healthy. Don't wait until disease strikes, but prevent it and save your fowls by using BOURBON POULTRY CURE.

Trial Bottle 50c, Full Quart $1.50.

FIRM'S SIGN WAS CHANGED

Bulky Lumber Dealer Gave Way to Son When Latter Passed Him in Weight.

"When I knew John Flske," said a Westchester politician, "he was in the lumber business on the West side of New York city, with his son as a partner. Both were heavyweights and both had the same name. John, Sr., for years had scaled about 360 pounds. He was a mammoth man, being more than six feet tall, very wide and very deep chested. His son was constructed on similar lines, and they were styled by their intimates as the 'heavyweight firm'."

"Father," remarked the son one day, "I rather think that I've been gaining on you lately and I wouldn't be surprised if I weighed more than you do now."

"Foolish talk, my boy. I'll beat you by 100 pounds. You are heavy, but you are not in my class yet."

"Let's get on the scales and find out. What do you say?"

"Quite willing to submit to the test," they weighed. John, Sr., balanced the beam at exactly 362 pounds. John, Jr., scaled 365. Although astonished, John, Sr., merely said: "I didn't think it, John, and you certainly don't look it, my boy."

"Separating, the young man gave no more thought to the incident, but the next day he was further surprised. The firm's sign had been changed. Hitherto it had read 'John Flske & Son,' but now the deposed heavyweight had transformed it to 'John Flske & Father.'"

COULDN'T HEAR SCHOOL BELL

Fascinations of the Bright June Morning Made Boy Deaf to Call of Duty.

A big humblebee lay helpless upon a plantain leaf under the morning glory vine—a sad example of the effects of too much intoxicating drink. He had imbibed honey freely all the day before and now, past eight o'clock of a bright June morning, when his fellows had been at work for hours, he sprawled, half paralyzed, a shocking sight to busy people.

I took a blade of grass and tickled him gently in his yellow plush region. He raised one leg—he was lying on his side—and waved it toward me in feeble protestation. The gesture spoke plainly. It said: "Lemme 'lone, can't yer. Jus' wants have HIM nap."

A little nap! A little nap, indeed, on that morning when all the garden was rustling and humming and whirling and twittering with life. The robin, who was the father of a hungry family living in the apple tree, was hunting worms on the lawn; the portulacas had been open for half an hour—ever since the sun had touched them; the fat toad who lived near the yellow lilies was awake and looking about with sly twinkling eyes (he had probably been up all night, too); and the morning glories had been unfolded since daylight. The school bell rang. But I did not hear it. A school bell on such a morning? No, I did not hear it.—The Outlook.

Disinfecting Theaters.

A committee of French doctors has been instructed to submit to the Paris police a scheme of regulations for minimizing the danger of the dissemination of infectious diseases at theatrical performances. It is proposed, in the first place, that every theater shall be disinfected after every performance by means of sawdust steeped in antiseptics. It also is recommended that windows and doors shall be kept wide open in the intervals between the performances, that the cushioned seats shall be sponged with antiseptics, that the cloak-room attendants shall undergo regular medical inspection, and finally that the air of the house shall be sterilized once a week by means of steam charged with formaldehyde. Pestiferous microbes certainly will need to be of a very hardy character to resist this drastic treatment.—Westminster Gazette.

Jewel Box Alarm.

Paris is now interested in my lady's jewel box with burglar alarm works in it. When the burglar picks up the box, or tampers with it, the thing gets busy with more noise than an alarm clock. Tip's advice to any lady who is warned by an alarm clock jewel box that a burglar is in the room with her is to refuse to be awakened by it and to interfere with his enterprise. Same advice to men. That device lets Mr. Burglar get too near before setting up its clanging clamor. The less fooling anybody does with burglars at close quarters the better. The kind of burglar alarm to recommend itself to people who think their lives are more valuable than precious stones would be one that would tell you the dark-lantern visitor was coming when he was five blocks away from your house.

Ants Plague English District.

An extraordinary plague of ants is causing alarm in the Durham, England, colliery village of Ryhope. One hundred and twenty miners' houses are infested with myriads of the pests, which swarm in the living rooms, causing serious discomfort and damage. The ants spread rapidly, and swarm about the cupboards and on the food in the houses. They are of a foreign species, and were brought to the village in consignments of Egyptian hay. The colliery owners have engaged experts to exterminate the pests. The infested houses are dealt with in turn, the ants being dug out in colonies and their nests destroyed.

Although the visitors got six hits to our four, in Tuesday's game, we beat them. Two passes, an error and a sacrifice fly brought in the two runs, which were needed to win the game.

Boly, for Cairo, and Yon, for the locals, were on the slab. Both pitched superb ball, Boly getting a shade the better of the argument.

The ninth was the inning which told the story. Kesling walked; Clark bunted and Hughes fumbled the ball, Kesling going to third; Lyons' sacrifice fly brought Kesling home with the tying score; Boly passed Nairn; and Johnson batting for Jones drove a long fly to center, Shinn dropped the ball, and Clark scored.

The second game of the series with Cairo was played yesterday.

Notes on Tuesday's Game.

Some bit nerve-racking, but still we won.

Boly, the little Cairo pitcher, brought in the visitors' only score.

Wolfe, the visitor's left fielder, got three singles out of four times up.

Clark made a nice catch of Hughes' sacrifice fly, back of second, in the seventh.

In the sixth, Kesling drove a single and Taylor caught him trying to go for second.

Zimmerman caught three difficult fly balls. Pretty good for a catcher.

Yon caught Lewis napping on first, in the eighth. The latter had beat out an infield hit.

Smith threw Flood out at third, in the sixth, and it took the latter some time to recover.

Zimmerman, Lyons, and Nairn engineered two double-plays, one in the first, and the other in the fifth.

The visitors got six hits, while the Moguls got only four; but the game was won in the 9th without a hit.

Taylor, who is trying to play on many teams in the league, made Boly pass Papa Nairn in the ninth, when the score was tied.

Four scattered hits were all the Moguls could get from the kid pitcher. He is only 19 and the best pitcher Cairo has used here.

Young Boly pitched a superb game; but nervousness and errors caused his defeat at the close. It was a hard game for the youngster to lose.

In the ninth inning, Smith threw Flood out at second. This was the second time the Egyptian's manager was arrested while trying to steal.

Another chance to score, came in the seventh. Nairn and Jones both singled, Johnson running for Nairn. McArthur flew-out to Dummy Hughes.

In the third, Hoptown had a chance to score, but failed. Yon beat out an infield hit, and ran to second when Flood overthrew first. Wolfe robbed Zimmerman of a sure bing'e, in the fifth.

A much applauded play was that of Nairn's. Boly hit a hot one some thirty feet inside of first. Nairn caught the ball with his bare hand, and threw Boly out; Yon covering first. It was in the sixth.

"Dr" Yon attempted to bunt in the sixth. The ball rolled down the third base foul line. Cox, the Egyptian third sacker, ran in to scoop up the ball. Instead, however, he let the ball roll on, and it went foul just outside of third.

The Hopkinsville and Clarksville team will play the game due Clarksville Thursday, July 6, in the city of Nashville by an arrangement made at Clarksville.

Secretary Abernathy has posted for the 4th of July some of the most showy and conspicuous bills ever used to advertise a game of ball in this region. They are full sheet bills in colors with a portrait of Uncle Sam firing a cannon cracker and announcing the great event to come off at Hopkinsville. They are being sent to all nearby towns.
